Ten strategies for successfully managing turbulent times.

We are living in a time of dynamic change, uncertainty, and turbulence and there are two approaches to improve organization long-term success, influence, and effectiveness. One – let - the circumstances change you, control you or master you, or Two - use these times to get stronger, wiser, and better and as a result improving overall sustained effectiveness and success. During this month's meeting, Tim will share ten vital strategies to master to maneuver through this uncertainty - using the second approach. Topics like; how perception influences behavior, how mindsets contribute to decisions and actions. The major contributors to negativity and how to eliminate or manage them. Using accountability to maintain positive employee and customer behavior. The role validation plays in employee performance and customer responses. Using adversity as a tool for positive growth. Using the process of reinvention to stay ahead of the challenges. Creating an environment of validation and creativity. The five major attitudes that destroy organization performance. How communication contributes to every aspect of the organization's response to change. Maintaining a culture of appreciation, recognition, and integrity. Don't miss this critical session. You will leave it better equipped to manage in today's dynamic world.

 Julie Adamen - speaking on "Tyranny of the Urgent" Stress Management
 Honoring Associa Hill Country & Brightview Landscape Services*

You have important tasks you MUST accomplish, AND you will have a continuous stream of incoming communication - emails, texts, phone calls, people. Continual unmanaged incoming communication creates a sense of urgency = high levels of stress.... As we "try" to process that communication while simultaneously working on important tasks. "Sense of urgency" DOES NOT = Importance. In this fun session, Julie takes a look at ways to manage your time and stress by separating those things that are truly important from those that are merely urgent.
